

Miami Living: Ultra-Luxury Residences Set to Open in South Florida

👤 Anne-Marie Pritchett 🕒 May 12, 2023 📁 Real Estate

New ultra-luxury residences offering all-in-one communities are set for development from West Palm Beach to Miami Beach. With powerful buyers seeking a higher demand of luxury, developers are revealing new designs with more amenities and exclusive perks. Oceanfront communities, branded residences, and unique culinary opportunities are just some of the concepts being offered in these newest developments, some set to open as early as 2026.

Olara

Olara will be located in West Palm Beach and offer over 80,000 square feet of amenity space. Developed by New York City-based developer Savanna and designed by the architecture firm Arquitectonica, this 26-story condo tower will have unparalleled views overlooking the Atlantic Ocean. 275 residences will be available in options with up to four bedrooms. Luxury amenities will include a prestigious restaurant on the waterfront, a fitness center, spa, two pools, a private marina, an exclusive lounge and waterfront patio, and a co-working space.

