01.09.23

In top luxury development, one of the latest trends is strategically placing the kitchen sink where residents can peer out a window and take full advantage of the sweeping views their home offers. Abode2 showcases five of the best examples from New York City to South Florida to LA

Allowing residents to take in breathtaking scenery during even the most mundane day-to-day tasks, like washing the dishes, these homes are attracting buyers with unparalleled views that elevate their daily lives. With the beauty of autumn just around the corner, these residences not only boast coveted views right from the kitchen sink but also engulf the kitchen with bright, crisp fall light.

Olara - West Palm Beach

Situated at 1919 N. Flagler, Olara, a transformative waterfront four-acre new development comprising premier condominium residences, a private dock, world-class culinary offerings, and much more, introduces a new wave of coastal living to West Palm Beach. The lifestyle was thoughtfully imagined to keep mind and body in tune and features a curated suite of wellness-inspired amenities and resort-style experiences. Designed by award-winning architecture firm Arquitectonica with interiors by Gabellini Sheppard Associates, the residences at Olara were designed to be bright and airy such as the European-style gourmet kitchens touting white matte lacquer cabinetry and honed Volakas marble. While using the kitchen, residents will be able to cook their favourite dishes while admiring sweeping views of the Intracoastal Waterway, Palm Beach, and the Atlantic Ocean. Olara Residences will offer two- to four-bedroom plus den residences starting at $2 million, completion is slated for 2026.
